JURY FAILS TO PLACE BLAME IN LEFEVRE DEATH

Inquest Held by Coroner Where Car Struck Pedestrian on March 21.

DRIVER BLINDED BY HEADLIGHTS

A coroner's jury avoided formal placing of blame in the death of Miss Lillie Catherine LeFevre, 59, Hanover R. 1, who died in the Hanover General hospital the afternoon of March 22 after having been struck by an automobile as she walked along the Hanover-Littlestown highway the preceding evening.

The verdict returned Saturday afternoon at an inquest held at the scene of the accident by Dr. Edgar A. Miller, Adams county coroner, found that Miss LeFevre had been fatally hurt as the "result of Richard L. Eby, Littlestown R. 2 (driver of the car which struck the women), being blinded by the lights of an approaching car and Miss LeFevre walking on the hard-surfaced section of the highway.

Driver Testifies

Testifying voluntarily, Eby told the coroner and jury that he had been driving toward Hanover about 7:10 o'clock the evening of March 21 when the accident occurred at a point about a mile west of Hanover. He estimated his speed at the time at about 30 to 35 miles an hour.

Eby stated that he had lowered the beams of his headlights because of an approaching car, the driver of which did not return the courtesy. Blinded by the glare of the oncoming lights, Eby testified that he had not seen the woman as she walked west along his right side of the road. He estimated that Miss LeFevre had been walking on the paved section of the road about two feet from the edge. It was explained that the berms of the road were covered with piles of snow, preventing Miss LeFevre from stepping off the paved section.

Eby's testimony was verified by Miss Ada Reindollar, also of Littlestown R. 2, who was riding with him when the accident occurred.

Shock Caused Death

Another witness was Dr. M. N. Harris, Hanover, to whose office Miss LeFevre was taken after the mishap. He stated that she had shown no external signs of injury, but had been suffering from shock. She was taken to the Hanover hospital, where she died of "shock and other injuries of the body," in the language of the verdict of the jury.

The jury also was given a report of the investigation of the accident that was made by Highway Patrolman Thomas C. Mahalik, of the local substation.

The members of the jury that heard the evidence in the case were Claude Warren, Amos Carbaugh, E. H. Peterman, W. H. Kiracofe, J. L. Small and William Shaffer.

28 ARRESTED AT COCKFIGHT

State Police Raid McSherrystown Basement Early Sunday Morning.

A detail of state police under the command of Corporal H. W. Buckbee, of the local substation, interrupted a group of nearly a half hundred ardent cockfight fans in the basement of the home of David Klunk, South street, McSherrystown, at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning and took 27 men and one woman into custody. The others escaped. Seven birds were seized.

The detail of state officers, accompanied by Constable Horace L. Bender, forced open a cellar door and the crowd dashed for other exits, attempting to escape through doors and windows leading out of the fighting room. In the rush for the exits, a scattered few succeeded in slipping past the officers. Seats for about 40 persons were arranged in rows about the ring in the center of the basement floor.

The officers called Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore into the building where the local justice set up for business and accepted a $15 bond from each of the prisoners for his appearance in the justice's office here this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Each was charged by Corporal Buckbee with aiding and abetting in cruelty to animals.

Six of the accused appeared this afternoon. Roy Micell, 104 Westminster street, Hanover, entered a plea of not guilty and was given a hearing with Corporal Buckbee as the only witness. Justice Basehore imposed a fine of $10 and $5.75 costs.

Five others pleaded guilty and received a 25-cent refund from the justice on the $15 bond they had posted Sunday morning. The 21 men and the woman who failed to appear forted their $15 bonds.

The five who entered pleas of guilty were Jacob Ceiling, 10 Penn street, Hanover; Joseph Fink, 630 East King street, York; Ray Richard, Hanover; Richard Mikel, Hanover, R. 1, and Roger Fulton, Hanover.

Officers declined to announce the list of defendants, stating that many of the names given are believed to be fictitious. Klunk, owner of the property, was among those nabbed.

Among the men who were nabbed were 10 who gave Hanover addresses, three from Lutherville, Maryland; six from McSherrystown, two from Gettysburg, and the remainder said they were from more distant points.

The seven fighting birds were turned over to Sheriff B. W. Spence who is caring for them until some disposition is made of them by the court. The birds are said to be worth several hundred dollars.

School and Church Should Train for 'World Crisis'

Rev. Dwight F. Putman, Christ Lutheran Pastor, Says Christian Institutions Must "Bring Forth Personality" With Courage to Grip Momentous Issues.

"Education and the World Crisis" was the theme of the sermon delivered Sunday morning by the Rev. Dwight F. Putman, pastor of Christ Lutheran church. His text was taken from John 20:31: "That ye may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God."

The sermon, in part follows:

"We are told that the world crisis is not primarily financial or economic, but moral and spiritual. At the basis of more of the social and personal problems than we think lie moral and spiritual reasons.

"After so much of the world has been paying attention to Easter and the events just preceding it one wishes that the multitudes would believe that Jesus is the Son of God, that they would be convinced of it by what they have been meeting and pondering. When you talk about the moral and spiritual reality in the universe do you seem to be seeing it first hand when you look in upon the last hours of Jesus' experience in the flesh? Are you persuaded that there you are witnessing the most real thing in the whole world? Your honest response to that will determine whether or not you believe in Jesus as the Son of God.

"If our civilization is spiritually important it is because the fundamental sources of the vitality of our common life have failed. If society is lacking something very vital it is a fairly safe deduction that education also lacks it.

Spiritual Life Needed

"A fresh infusion of spiritual life is always the need where chaos reigns and where crisis appears. Nor do we imply that the solution is conventional religion, for in some eras like our own that itself is in dire need of the same kind of infusion.

"The church and school ought to furnish youth with a Christian dy-

LOSES CONTROL, CAR TURNS OVER

Lebanon Driver Blames Accident on Auto He Was About to Pass.

No one was injured but a Lebanon car was damaged in an accident at 7 o'clock Sunday morning about two miles south of Heidlersburg on the Gettysburg-Harrisburg road. Highway Patrolman George S. Harleman, of the local substation, investigated the accident.

Joseph Frick, 27, 26 North Lincoln avenue, Lebanon, told the investigating officer that he had been driving toward Gettysburg when he sounded his horn and started to pass a car traveling in the same direction. He stated that the second car veered to the left, forcing him off the left or east side of the highway where he lost control. The machine then swerved to the right and turned over on its side along the west side of the highway.

Frick stated that as he crawled out of his machine he noticed that the other car had stopped and then continued south. Patrolman Harleman questioned William Dance, 27, Toronto, Canada, on his way to the scene of the collision, but Frick did not identify Dance's car as that which had forced him off the road.

No charges have been laid.

Frick's car, which was damaged to the extent of about $50, was towed to a local garage.

HOLC DOES GOOD REPAIR JOB ON WRONG HOUSE

Scranton, Pa., April 5 (AP).—Two landlords agreed Saturday that the Home Owners' Loan corporation did a good repair job on a house—but said it was the wrong house.

They said they believed that the omission of the word "rear" from the address in Peckville caused the error. A contractor appeared at the home tenanted by John Wilding and repapered the downstairs rooms, redecorated the bathroom and repaired a chimney.

The owners, Dr. Eugene Simpson and Walter Bloes, said they had not ordered the repairs. They said they learned that the repairs — worth $153—were intended for a house in the rear of the one they owned and that renovations were authorized by the Philadelphia reconditioning office of the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

name in their attack upon life, a challenge to noble tasks. These institutions must, in some manner, make us alive to our very fingertips to the burning issues of life. One of the greatest sins of this modern generation of education and culture is the way we become preoccupied with, center our lives about, and drain our energies out over the small, measly, superficial things of life that don't matter much.

"The complacent, unalert, half-awake man or woman may be the so-called successful man or woman in the community. But at the same time he does not know there is a world crisis, or, if aware of it, takes no responsibility for it. He sometimes becomes exhibit 'A' even for church colleges. College alumni have him. Fraternities have him coming back. You occasionally spot him as a prosperous, swaggering, drinking alumnus returning for gala functions to demonstrate to these novice undergraduates an ideal which is a kind of carelessness about life. To him we ought to say, 'Enough like you will keep any society from being wholesome and progressive. You help greatly to explain why we have a crisis on our hands.'

Many Forgotten

"One reason sometimes advanced for the justificaiton of a church related college is the number of its graduates who can be found in 'Who's Who.' But when one does this and forgets entirely to mention that listing which includes the tall souls and spiritual giants who ought to be considered the prize winning products of any institution, he is doing that perfectly shoddy thinking about the ideals of an educaiton which is altogether too prevalent.

"College trained men and women are going to be increasingly at the helm of society as the years multiply. They will set the pace and they will mould our systems of though and life. Just which ones are going to be doing this? The college trained of what caliber and of what quality? The zeal and passion of many of those without Christian idealism is unbounded. They are setting a pace after their own spirit, one of these may weigh heavier in the outcome than a hundred complacent and unalert Christian ones. And when the day of adjustment and reconstruction is upon us they may chart our course.

Dangers Threaten

"Christian youths are in danger of being thrown wholly on the defensive. The fear of what presents itself as the extreme, or the radical causes many to do no more than freeze on to whatever has been, when all the while the day calls for society to be changed and remade by Christian hands and moulded by Christian ethics. We may resist any alteration or new adjustment in the fields of industry, economics, international relations, education and religion. But we had better be wise and read the signs of the times. Some group, some philosophy will do the job. Why shall it not be Christian idealism, Christian leadership.

"It has been said that the purpose of culture is 'to turn a stream of fresh and free thought upon our old stock of notions and habits.' Such culture, if it was Christian, would save our times for us.

"The challenge to the school and the church is to cease living in the past, to see the world accurately as it is, and to train for the crisis task which men of some kind of spirit who have courage are going to wrestle through to some conclusion. The demand upon these Chistian institutions is to bring forth personality that will be sensitive to life's needs and which will be fired with courage enough to come to grips with the momentous issues that await solution."

Navy Discloses New 'Radio Spy' To Spot Enemy Craft From Afar

Washington, April 5 (AP).—Navy department officials disclosed Sunday the development of a radio spy" by which enemy warships can be located or tracked long distances at sea.

Rear Admiral Harold G. Bowen, engineer-in-chief of the navy, first reported development of the device by the department's radio direction-finder experts to congressional appropriations committees which handle navy funds.

Bowen declined to make public details of the "radio spy," filing such in formation with the committees under a confidential supplement.

Navy officers, while saying the development was secret and could not be discussed, added that it was possible it would be given its first comprehensive test in naval maneuvers to be held in the Alaska-Hawaii sector in the Pacific this year.

Under the same confidential supplement Admiral Bowen also requested funds for the development of a system of cryptography by which warships can transmit signals to another vessel in the fleet which cannot be deciphered by an enemy vessel.

Bowen said the navy was bringing navy vessels up to the minute in radio equipment by replacing old sets with the newest modern apparatus.

"There are about 2,000 radio receivers in the navy and about half of them are obsolete, insensitive and can be interfered with easily," he said. "We have requested funds to replace them with modern equipment."

Two types of portable radio equipment are now being installed on warships. One type, which requires six men to handle, will be used to maintain communication between ships and advanced bases by landing forces. The other set, designed to be carried on a man's back, is to be used by landing forces in action and for inshore operations.

Detective Sergeant Charles Coyle took the remainder of the pancake batter and the syrup to police headquarters for analysis.

EARTH, LADEN WITH SELENIUM, BRINGS DISEASE

Washington (AP)—Selenium will get you if you don't watch out!

That's what Chemists Maurice I. Smith, K. W. Franke and B. B. Westfall of the United States Public Health Service have discovered in recent experiments.

Human beings get selenium from plants and animals raised on soil containing that heavy metal. In three northwestern states it was found that 92 per cent of the persons in 111 families on selenium-bearing soil had traces of it in their bodies.

Also in the group was a high percentage with diseased finger nails, intestinal disorders, diseased skin and several cases of arthritis, the chemists reported.

But there is comfort in the fact selenium is prevalent in only a few isolated soil patches of the northwest.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: Eve Mannersfield and gay, city-loving Denny Carter are on the verge of marriage when they quarrel and he walks out. Eve is left in her 200-year-old Connecticut house with kind old "Uncle" Henry and serious little Judge Featherstone whose parents have deserted him and gone to Hollywood. Her steady, dependable neighbor, George Cleveland, who loves Eve intensely, offers his help, for Eve is stranded financially. She resumes her aunt's baking business. Then comes a shattering letter saying Denny is to marry wealthy Mitzi.

Chapter 34

EVE COLLAPSES

As soon as Eve had carefully torn her letter to Lenny into very small pieces and burned them, she went downstairs to the kitchen. Her hands were still numb, but her mind was very clear, and she worked until three the next morning. Then she went to bed. She lay awake and thought it all over and over and over. In between she thought about the wallpaper and tried to plan her work ahead.

She could not eat anything at breakfast, but she talked in a metallic voice to the others as she drank black coffee.

"Mother's letter says they have the grandest pink house, and a police dog," Judge said timidly across the table. "Did she send you the money?"

"I don't know, Judge. I didn't read her letter."

She regarded him, sitting there over his oatmeal. The weeks since his parents went away had given him added health and serenity.

She had paid over all her happiness for the welfare of this child who was nothing to her. Things were odd in this world. She wondered if she would go on liking him when she got so she could feel anything again. Oh, yes, she must read Marylin's letter.

There was little more as regards herself and Denny than "You naughty girl to throw poor Denny over, when we all thought it would be a match!" . . . and then a long delightful description of the circumstances under which they had fallen on their feet this time.

"The darlingest old lady—and a cousin of Sarah James in Buffalo, so she felt she knew all about us—" an old lady, it seemed, who didn't like children, so it was a mercy Eve was such a darling about Judge—and who wanted Peter to do her portrait, and simply loved having them, and was going to take them on a trip to Honolulu when she was out of the hospital; where she'd had to go to after three days. Meanwhile, it seemed, the Featherstones were living with all expenses paid, waited on by a corps of servants in her pink stucco mansion. The old lady collected poets; she was excited because Peter was a painter. There was not a word about paying Eve.

"Well, after all, why should they?" she thought with a new cynicism. "They've been supported by experts! Probably they feel they did wonders in signing a paper saying they'd pay board!"

To Keep From Thinking

But it didn't matter. Nothing mattered. Nothing but finding enough hard physical work to do to halfway keep from thinking. Denny and Mitzi—Mitzi and Denny. Denny had laughed at Mitzi for being so old. He had made fun of her affections and pretenses. . . . And he was marrying Mitzi. Oh, it couldn't be Denny, gay passionate loving Denny! "God, let it not be true," she whispered. But it went on being true.

When the day's routine of baking was done and labeled for delivery, Eve went feverishly to the attic. The afternoon sun pouring down made it an oven but she was glad, it had seemed to her she would never be warm again. She piled and unpiled trunks and boxes aimlessly. Halfway through she stopped and tried to recall what she was looking for. . . . Of course. A spinning wheel. Somebody wanted to buy one, Emily had said at the post office yesterday, hadn't she? Great-grandmother Denton's spinning wheel. . . .

She carired it down in her arms when she found it. She caught a glimpse of herself in the long mirror at the head of the stairs. Streaked, crimson-flushed, drenched with perspiration, she looked like a caricature of herself. She walked on out of the house without knowing she carried the heavy wheel still, straight through the lawn and to the orchard path. She did not know where she was going. Something in her subconscious, she supposed afterward, had some idea of selling the wheel to Mrs. Cleveland.

It was George who faced her, as she staggered mounting the stile between the orchards.

"Eve, Eve, what's the matter?"

His arms were strong, and she let go the wheel. She mustn't tell him that her Denny was that kind of man.

"Marylin is going to Honolulu," she said wildly, and sank against him, strengthless.

"Enough to make anybody sick." Uncle Henry was saying angrily when she opened her eyes on the front-parlor sofa. "Worked most of the night and then started cleaning the attic this weather!"

George held a glass to her mouth and said quietly, "Drink this, Eve."

She drank it and said again weakly, "She didn't send the money and she's going to Honolulu—"

"Don't, Eve, you break my heart!" George said harshly.

Uncle Henry said: "Nonsense, child, we're more than making our living. She's all shaken up. You lie right there!" he added sternly.

Judge, in the background, clasped a pitcher of water in the hope she might have use for it. They surrounded her with their loving anxiety and anger. Through all her misery a little comfort sifted because of George's kind arm lifting her shoulders, and Uncle Henry's affectionate scolding and Judge's devoted eyes.

Bread-And-Butter Of Life

They made her rest all that day and the next. One of the three stood guard over her most of the time; Adriano waited on her hand and foot; George's housekeeper, Mattie, hovered about with all possible comforts. George came in the next day with his mother's check for $150 for the lacquer cabinet, and she heard Adriano and George taking it away.

"I'm using it, for the present, for my own papers!" he said matter-of-factly. "Mother's in Southampton for some time to come."

She'd know about Denny and Mitzi then. . . . Of course. Everyone would. She hoped George would not talk about it to her just now.

He never did, whatever he heard or knew. Ellen came out over the week-end, full of the failures and successes of her stock company near Sharon, gay and friendly with George, indignant about Marylin, the same stable decisive Ellen. She said nothing more to Eve about George. And Eve could not bring herself, even to Ellen, to tell about Denny. Ellen would know, soon enough.

Somehow as the summer passed, Eve was well and put herself to work once more. The appleblossoms fell and the little apples began to come; and the flowers along the lawn changed with the seasons, larger and brighter for July.

There would never be any Denny again. She must get used to that. She must go on with a life that had nothing in it. Get on with the plain bread-and-butter of life—earning his living, being kind to the old man and little boy, making friends and doing her work.

5 COLORED CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH

Frederick—Five children, all colored, were burned to death in their home near Beallsville about 11:30 o'clock Thursday night. Four older members of the family with two babies were able to escape.

The family was that of Dennis Owens, colored farmer. The two-story frame structure in which they lived was located about a mile out of Beallsville on the Barnesville road. It burned to the ground.

LOYALISTS IN CORDOBA DRIVE

Madrid Says New Thrust Endangers Rebel Line in Mining Zone.

Madrid, April 5 (AP).—The government army struck in a new sector of the far-flung Cordoba province battlefront Sunday and intensified the menace to the insurgents' main line of communications.

Dispatches from the southern battle ground told of a sudden westward extension of the offensive the government has been pushing successfully for a week in the mining lands northwest of Cordoba. The new thrust carried government troops to the rear of the insurgents holding the Penarrayo mining zone.

A government column was reportd to have captured the important town of Valsequillo, ten miles northwest of Penarroya, and to have continued toward La Granjuela, junction point of roads to the south.

This operation put Penarroya under attack from two sides, as another government column was forcing its way down the road which runs from Hinajosa del Duque into the mine country.

At the same time, the main government column which began the drive from Pozoblanco is attempting to take Villaharta, about eighteen miles north of Cordoba, which would close the eastern outlet and bottle up the insurgents between there and Penarroya.

Anti-aircraft batteries late Sunday afternoon drove off five insurgent airplanes which appeared on the edge of Madrid and swooped low over a residential district. Promenaders scurried for cover as the raiders roared through the sky, but no bombs were dropped.

RESERVE BOARD TO ACT TO CHECK U. S. BOND DROP

Washington, April 5 (AP). — The Federal Reserve board announced Sunday night that it would buy government bonds on the open market to maintain "orderly conditions."

Informed authorities said the proposed purchases were not designed to peg the government securities market, but were intended to iron out sharp price fluctuations.

The recent price decline of government bonds apparently was responsible or the Reserve Board's action.

In a statement, the board said government securities would be bought through the open market committee "in such amounts and at such times as may be desirable."

The action was taken, it said, with a view to exerting the board's influence "toward orderly conditions in the money market," and to facilitate "orderly adjustment" of member banks to the 16 2-3 per cent increase in deposit reserve requirements effective May 1.

The higher percentage of funds which must be held behind deposits is expected to "freeze" about $700,000,000 of bank funds.

Some banks recently have been selling government bonds in order to build up reserve balances to meet the higher requirements.

This has been regarded in informed quarters as an important factor in the liquidation movement in the government bond market.

MODERN PONY EXPRESS ENDS FIRST 145 MILES

Woodward, Okla., April 5 (AP).—Lobo Jim Wilcox watered his cayuse on Main street Sunday, rested while curious crowds blocked traffic and headed south on his modern pony express dash, designed to be the longest and fastest ever made on one horse.

With Panhandle dust clinging to his month-old whiskers, Lobo Jim and his big sorrel Smoky, passed the half-way point on schedule. Wilcox is due in Oklahoma City Wednesday noon to advertise Guyman's fifth annual pioneer day celebration May 3.

The one-time bronc ride complained of the cool weather, but Smoky looked none the worse after his 145-mile jaunt. A stiff north wind was blowing and the temperature stood at thirty-eight degrees.

BABE, WEIGHING 12 OZS. AT BIRTH, GAINS GROUND

Albia, Iowa, April 5 (AP).—Tiny Charles Peter Jonston, estimated by Dr. R. A. Smith to have weighed twelve ounces when born five days ago, gained strength Sunday night. Meanwhile contributions to a fund to provide for the infant's care swelled to $100.

Doctor Smith kept the infant on a diet of milk and diluted corn syrup. Weighed for the first time Saturday, Charles Peter tipped the physician's scales at an even pound, but Doctor Smith said he believed the baby had gained an ounce a day.

DOG SHOOTS POLICEMAN TO DEATH IN BROOKLYN

The dog leaped, seizing Monroy's wrist in its teeth. The gun was discharged and the bullet pierced Monroy through the left chest.

He died before an ambulance surgeon from Kings county hospital arrived. His widow, Celia, and two stepchildren survive him.

Ex-Head of G. P. U. Is Held Prisoner

Moscow, April 5 (AP)—Genrikh Yagoda, who helped found and develop the dreaded G. P. U. (Soviet secret police), Sunday was himself a prisoner in the hands of that organization facing some form of the heavy punishments he had helped mete out to thousands.

A curt communique, carrying little explanation, told the Russian public of the long-expected downfall of the man who had supervised hundreds of executions. He was dismissed from his post of Commissar of Posts and Telegraphs, to which he had been demoted last September from the much more important commissariat of internal affairs, which carried control of the secret police.

Case is Being Prepared

Yagoda was lodged in jail pending preparation of a case against him, and it was indicated he probably would figure soon in one of Moscow's spectacular trials.

The communique said:

"In view of the disclosure of breaches in office of a criminal nature committed by Yagoda, the People's commissar of Posts and Telegraphs, the presidium of the Central Executive committee of the U. S. S. R. has decided:

1. To remove Yagoda from office.
2. To hand over the case of Yagoda the organs of investigation.

29 FROM U. S. SEIZED TRYING TO ENTER SPAIN

Toulouse, France, April 5 (AP)—Twenty-nine men identified by police as American citizens were imprisoned here Sunday.

Charged with attempting to enter Spain to join the Spanish government army, they face a maximum sentence of six months in prison and heavy fines if found guilty.

The group was arrested Saturday midnight when it started across the Franco-Spanish morder at Fos, on the frontier south of Toulouse. Officers who had been hiding in bushes waiting for them made the arrests.

When taken in custody, the men proclaimed their innocence and said they were only going to the frontier as tourists to have a look at Spain. They were held in gendarmerie barracks for the remainder of the night and brought here Sunday.

Authoritis said they held bona fide American passports, but described most of them as being of European origin.

Police hailed the arrests as smart detective work. When the group landed at Le Havre, the police account said, they told authorities they had come to visit the exposition, but police, skeptical, notified the Surate Nationale.

The men were trailed during a stay in Paris. Detectives reported a hotel clerk said one of the group told him he was going to Spain to join the government forces.

Members of the group split at Paris, police said, going separately to Toulouse, where they hired a bus that picked them up on the outskirts of the city. Word was sent ahead, however, to the border patrol, and the arrests followed.

BUREAU BUILDS TUNNEL FOR COAL MINE RESEARCH

Washington (AP).—The bureau of mines has undertaken further experiments to improve underground working conditions affecting the health of miners.

The bureau has established a research tunnel at Mt. Weather, Va., a spot once considered as a site for a summer White House, to carry on such studies.

Similar research for coal mines is being done by the bureau at its experimental mine at Bruceton, Pa., where special emphasis is placed on the study of prevention of coal dust explosions.

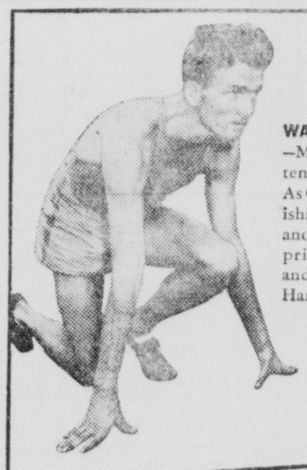
The World's Record Holder... Glenn Hardin... Going Over the Hurdles



WAITING FOR THE GUN—Moments when nervous tension reaches the crest. As Glenn says: "It's a punishing pace." Like many another champion who prizes good condition and healthy nerves, Glenn Hardin chooses Camels for his cigarette. "They never jangle my nerves," he says.

SAILING OVER A LOW HURDLE—It looks effortless, but Glenn's strained, tense face shows how the race drains tremendous physical and nervous energy out of him.

TOPPING A HIGH HURDLE—Superb form helped Glenn win honors in 2 Olympics—and brought him the world's record. His record-breaking time, 50.6 seconds for the 400-meter hurdles, was sensational.

BREASTING THE TAPE—Glenn Hardin is famous for his sprinting finish. He calls on his reserve energy to send him flying to the tape. And after the finish, he lights up a Camel. Why? Because, in his own words: "Camels help to ease strain. They set me right."

THE YOUNGEST MAN on the Olympic track squad. Glenn Hardin was only 20 years old when he won his first Olympic victory for the U. S. He eats sensibly—takes good digestion for granted. The picture (right) shows Glenn enjoying his favorite meal—rare, thick, juicy steak, green vegetables, fruit, milk, and Camels. As Glenn phrases it: "It wouldn't do me much good to eat and not digest properly. So I smoke Camels for digestion's sake. It's grand to light up Camels and enjoy the sense of well-being that comes when digestion is going along o-kay."

"NO MAN WANTS JITTERY NERVES, when there's high voltage all around him," says Raymond Newby, radio engineer. "That's why my choice is Camels. I've always heard, and my own experience convinces me, that Camels don't jangle the nerves."

AIR HOSTESS of a leading air-line, Miss Betty Steffen, observes: "I strive to be alert every single minute. I find Camels are a wonderful help in keeping me feeling pepped-up. I smoke as many Camels as I please. They never get on my nerves."

An Important Fact for Cigarette Smokers

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS ...Turkish and Domestic... than any other popular brand.

MRS. ANTHONY J. DREXEL 3rd, in the spacious dining salon of the S.S. Normandie, enjoys an after-dinner Camel. "Social life keeps nerves on the qui vive," says the society leader. "Smoking Camels tends to minimize the strain. It's been my experience that Camels encourage a sense of well-being. They're so mild—I never tire of them."

A melancholy accident occurred in this borongh on Saturday afternoon last.—A son of J. Garvin, Esq., in company with two or three other lads, had been handling and snapping a musket which was in the house, not supposing it was loaded. —This, however, happened to be the case; the gun was discharged, and its contents struck an interesting lad, named Henry Hollinger, grandson of Mr. C. Chritzman, of this borough, aged 7 or 8 years, and carried away a considerable portion of his face and arm. He is still lingering, in considerable agony, but with faint hopes of recovery.

Sundown Story

MONKEY, DONKEY ELEPHANT

"WELL," said the little man Willy Nilly, "I really haven't the backbone of a broken balloon if I don't get at my chores. We have had a great deal to do, it is true, but now I must attend to so many odds and ends and then I must do something about my sticking out, pointed ears. I don't want to have the ears of a goat when I am not a goat."

"I haven't seen a goat around!" said Christopher Columbus Crow.

"Naturally," cawed Christopher.

"Bow-wow-wow," barked Rip, as he hurried up the hill to Willy Nilly's house. "I've just heard that a monkey and a donkey and an elephant were over by the Empty House."

Now, Rip," cawed Christopher, "You've been ill, though of course you are quite all right now. In fact you have been well for a long time. But your doggish imagination gets the better of you."

"You're annoyed because you didn't discover them first."

Christopher and Top Notch looked quite miserable. Christopher was supposed to discover important happenings and Top Notch was proud that he could detect what was going on, and here was Rip with a most exciting bit of news.

"A monkey and a donkey and an elephant are over by the Empty House," repeated Rip, "and I heard the news not from someone else but by my own ears. I hear the elephant trumpeting and the monkey squealing and the donkey baying—and right by the Empty House.

"'I don't understand," said Willy Nilly.

Tomorrow—"Willy Nilly Listens."

Today's Talk

—By George Matthew Adams—

BABIES

THIS talk is being written in Texas but a few miles from where occurred one of the saddest tragedies of modern times—happy school children blown to bits, without a moment's warning—their playground strewn with their broken bodies. And hundreds of homes wrecked forever.

These children left no dependents, however. Crushed with grief, dazed, though stolid, their fathers and mothers bent over crude graves on that Texas plain, burying their hearts with their beloved, with whom they had laughed but a few hours before. Then they went back to the loneliest group of homes in all the world right now. And the love and sympathy of millions all over the earth, went with them.

The news of that tragic event shocked and depressed me beyond expression, yet but a few days before I read of the call of a European dictator demanding more babies, offering premiums to mothers for them, and reprimanding those who would not have them. Why? Because 20 years from now he must have more boys for gun fodder! And he must have more girl babies to become mothers of boys to be sacrificed upon the altar of greed and cruel ambition. And so just now there is already a battle going on in Europe—the Battle for Babies.

The most precious material for war, therefore, now looms as that of babies! In Italy alone marriages have declined 30 per cent in relation to population during the rule of the present dictator. Perhaps they have a silent "sit-down strike" among the young women and mothers over there. It's one "sit-down strike," if true, that the very angels in heaven would applaud. Now if only such a strike could become universal, until war would forever be abolished, every father and mother would applaud—and childhood could safely dream of its rightful heritage.

What mother today can be assured that the baby which she rocks in her arms will not some day be returned to her with all his dreams shattered and his body maimed or broken—or perhaps never heard from again after the last fond farewell?

Millions of mothers' tears bathe the earth in Spain today, where battered bits of babies lie.

Babies, babies, and more babies. That's the sneering cry and demand of war lords—those who are bending every effort to embroil the whole world in war. How about a mothers' union, whose members will refuse to bear babies later to be sent to war and be shot?

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of our dear husband and father, Henry E. Boyd, who died one year ago today, April 5th, 1936.

There is someone who misses you sadly,
And find the time long since you went.
There is someone who thinks of you always,
And tries to be brave and content.
Friends may think we have forgotten you,
When at times they see us smile.
But they little know the heartache
Which smiles hide all the while.

By His Wife and Daughter.

CROSS STATE LINE, AVOID CHILD-MARRIAGE LAW

Knoxville, Tennessee, April 5 (AP).—Aroused over a young pair's evasion of Tennessee's recently enacted law against "child marriages," by leaving the state to wed, State Senator Andrew J. Graves said Sunday he will take up the problem with the United States crime and uniform law commission.

The pair, 13-year-old Mildred Hill and Robert Pack, 17, both of Knoxville, eloped to North Carolina last week, thus evading the recently enacted Tennessee law forbidding marriage of persons under sixteen years. Parents of the two have given reluctant approval of the elopement.

LETTERS WRITTEN IN 1918 ARE DELIVERED AT LAST

Chicago, April 5 (AP)—Late in May, 1918, Private Arthur J. Murphy wrote two letters to his mother in Chicago from the battlefields of France.

Lawyer Arthur J. Murphy—the same man—Saturday disclosed she just received them. They came from Cloquet, Minnesota, together with a note of explanation from E. A. Kennedy, former second lieutenant in Murphy's Marine outfit.

It seems Kennedy was about to censure the missives when the company set off for Belleau Wood. They were thrust into a blanket roll. Three years later the bedding turned up in the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Kennedy, called away again, stowed the equipment in a trunk. He rummaged through the old paraphernalia recently, rediscovered the letters and dispatched them.

22 MEMBERS ADMITTED TO PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Twenty-two persons were admitted to membership in the local Presbyterian church Sunday morning during the annual spring communion service conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Frederick B. Crane.

Those who joined by profession or re-affirmation of faith were: Mrs. John Willis Beidler, Mrs. Stewart Edward Plank, Miss Marie Walker, William Walker, Henry Walker, Theodore Keefer, Ida Mae Alexander, Betty Hayberger, Ruth Zimmerman, William Bigham, Roy Manahan, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Kadwill and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Anderson.

Through letters of dismissal from other churches, the following were added to the church rolls here: Mrs. Robert C. Lott, J. Willis Beidler, Mrs. Hugh C. McIlhenny, James R. VanCleve, Mary Jane Pittenturf, and Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Walker.

The soloist for the morning worship service was Miss Betty Swope.

WAYNESBORO CONCERT

The Gettysburg college a cappella choir under the direction of Parker B. Wagnild rendered a sacred concert in the Waynesboro Lutheran church Sunday evening.

For the first 10 months of 1936 postal receipts at Raleigh, N. C., showed a gain of $54,577 over the same period of 1935, Postmaster Carl Williamson reported.

Today's leader—THE FULL 2-PLOW
ALLIS-CHALMERS MODEL "WC"

In dollar-for-dollar value . . . in modern design . . . and in year 'round performance—the model "WC" tractor is out in front . . . leading the way. Farming with an air-tired "WC" is far easier—fewer hours in the field, less wasted time, less back-breaking labor. You unhitch from cultivator, planter, mower, etc., in 5 minutes—without special tools, and no skinned knuckles. Higher travel speeds save time between jobs or for hauling at 10 miles an hour. In the field, you plow, cultivate or work the seed bed at 5 miles an hour. A new kind of performance—quick-acting and economical. Gasoline or low grade fuel—with same carburetor. Operating costs are lower . . . and you ride in comfort. See us today.

QUATRAINS

Poverty and Riches

That man is poor, however rich,
Whose palms for more of treasure itch;
But rich is he, though much denied,
Who is with plenty satisfied.

* * *

Rule for Happiness

How to be happy! All I've learned
Is that the pleasant hours are brief.
The joyous life is only earned
By bravely facing care and grief.

Realtor's View of Life

From the contract of a realy man,
One line I chose to change and quote is:
"Life is a short-term lease which can
And may be canceled without notice."

* * *

Change

A changing age! This world goes on
However man may rearrange it.
What this age proudly looks upon
The next will scorn and want to change it.

Naval War Games Will Begin Soon

San Pedro, California, April 5 (AP).—Defense of Hawaii and tests of new vest-pocket cruisers, new sky cruisers and new submarines will feature the navy's annual war games beginning April 16.

From that date until April 28 the floating forces, engaging in Problem XVIII, will cover 5,000,000 square miles of ocean between Alaska, Hawaii and California, in the climax of the year's training activities.

Six weeks of action will find 139 ships and 474 fighting aircraft engaged in millions of miles of flying, thousands of takeoffs from carrier and by catapult from warships and intricate problems of sky navigation and return to moving bases.

Thousands of miles of cruising under war conditions will face the surface and undersea ship navigators.

The newest, fastest 1,500-ton destroyers, frequently termed "vest-pocket cruisers" will move into Aleutian waters. In the wallowing seas of the Arctic these ships will have real sea problems, no radio beams, no lighthouses.

There will be seven twelve-plane squadrons of the navy's giant ocean-spanning sky patrols and two additional six-plane squadrons on missions of coast and insular defense. During the maneuvers a twelve-plane squadron will fly from San Diego to Pearl Harbor.

Gedeon Allowed To Return to Shop

New York, April 5 (AP).—Joseph Gedeon won possession of his cluttered upholstering shop from the police Sunday but was refused admittance to the Beekman Hill apartment in which he found his wife, their artist's model daughter, Veronica on Easter morning.

Flanked by two attorneys, the upholsterer visited the police station near his wife's apartment to demand return of the keys to his shop, held by the officers since his arrest on a charge of violating the Sullivan firearms act.

Lieut. Martin Owens agreed to permit Gedeon and his attorneys to take possession of the shop, but refused their request to visit the apartment in which Mrs. Mary Gedeon, her 20-year-old daughter, and Frank Byrnes died.

The attorneys immediately went to the upholstering shop, but Gedeon did not accompany them. They they visited the neighborhood bar where Gedeon had told police he had been bowling the night his wife and daughter were killed.

With the investigation of the triple slaying apparently at a standstill, police released Sunday portions of a diary in which Veronica had recorded her thoughts and experiences during the past five years.

BOASTS FIRST STRIKE VICTORY AGAINST FORD

Kansas City, April 5 (AP).—Ed Hall, vice president of the United Automobile Workers of America, told cheering unionists of the Committee for Industrial Organization Sunday that settlement of a sit-down strike here is "the first time in the history of the labor movement that a strike has been successfully consummated against the Ford Motor company."

The crowd, in a massmeeting, jammed one indoor arena with a seating capacity of more than 1,500 and everflowed into aisles. Hall spoke from the fight ring platform.

The union leader coupled with what he called the "victory ceremony" a warning to "trade unionism' against "abusing" the sit-down strike, which he said has "proved a very effective weapon of organized labor."

Gives Adive on Grievances

He advised individual workers to take future grievances to their local organization which would in turn refer them to international officers in Detroit, because "I say there never should have to be another strike in this plant of the Ford Motor company."

Hall congratulated the local Chevrolet-Fisher body company union for its conduct since the September sitdown settlement, charging that some of the recent sit-downs in Pontiac and Flint had been "augmented by the management."

The Atlanta pennant-winning baseball club used only 22 players last season, being the smallest aggregation in the Southern association.
